

I'll Still See the Nail

*As I read about your nail-pierced hands
My heart broke, I wept as I read, yet I knew
This was what God had planned
I don't understand why you had to go through so much pain
This was all for our eternal gain
I can image how you felt on the cross
Being tortured for all those that are lost
Even feeling your Father had forsaken you
Some times we feel this way too
But God has allowed all these things in his command
One day we all will enjoy the Promised Land
Eternity where peace and joy will prevail
I know as I look at your hands, I'll still see the nail
One day to see you face to face
And enjoy the glory and grace
The blessed Hope will have come
I'll finally be in the presence of your Son*

© 2003 Barbara A. Hoff

233 - 02/13/03